DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election with traverse of Group I, Claims 1-51 and Species (A), Figure 1 in Paper No. 3 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that Applicant feels "that it would not be burdensome for the Office to examiner all three species in a single application." This is not found persuasive because Examiner does maintain that searching for three different species as opposed to only searching for one is a burden.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claims 52-63 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected group and species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in Paper No. 3.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Dae et al (US 6,607,517). Dae et al discloses a method of manipulating the temperature of a patient comprising steps of positioning a balloon catheter in the stomach of the patient, exchanging heat between the balloon catheter and the stomach so as to controllably alter the temperature of a substantial portion of the patient's body, introducing a heat exchange fluid into the balloon catheter, and allowing the heat exchange fluid to flow through the balloon catheter in a closed-loop, wherein heat is exchanged between the balloon catheter and the stomach so as to controllably alter the temperature of at least a portion of the patient (Column 6 Line 36 – Column 8 Line 4).

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ward et al (US 5,716,386). Ward et al discloses a method of manipulating the temperature of a patient comprising steps of positioning a balloon catheter in the stomach of the patient, exchanging heat between the balloon catheter and the stomach so as to controllably alter the temperature of a substantial portion of the patient's body (Column 10, Line 51 – Column 11, Line 40).

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 1-51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Plattner et al (Efficacy of Intraoperative Cooling Methods). Plattner et al discloses a method of manipulating the temperature of a patient comprising steps of positioning a balloon catheter in the stomach of the patient, exchanging heat between the balloon catheter and the stomach so as to controllably alter the temperature of a substantial portion of the patient's body (Entire Article).
